A Faithful Preacher.

We cut the following from the Nashville American:

Dr. Baird took occasion, in his sermon at the First Cumberland Presbyterian Church, Sunday morning, to say that he had been spoken to by one of the leading members of his church upon the subject of temperance, and had been deeply convicted by him that if he persisted in preaching temperance the attendance at his church would begin to decrease. The Doctor said he was somewhat surprised at the remark coming from a member of his congregation, but that it could have no effect upon him. He proposed, in the future, as in the past, to preach temperance, and it made but little difference to him whether he was sustained by the congregation or not, if he did right. He referred in severe terms to what he termed the non-acting in regard to sinning and drinking, saying that the great barrier, criminal court, the city council and mayor. He said that, morally, Nashville was gradually going to the bad.

Dr. Baird is a preacher after our own heart. He does not consume his time or his intellect in demonstrations of the origin of evil, or the subtleties of Christian experience, or the form of Church government or the method of Christian baptism; but he looks out into the world around him and lights on the evils which are there threatening society. Evil in the abstract is not his theme, but evils in the concrete, palpable for all to see who will look. These he grapples with and cries aloud to his people; these are the evils which are sapping the foundations of society and corrupting and ruining our sons and daughters; these, then, are the sins that concern us, and not others; these are our enemies, fall upon these and extirpate them.

No man ever dealt with evil in this spirit without treading on somebody's toes and stirring up a storm. Dr. Baird has not been an exception. Some time ago another Nashville preacher, Dr. Hoyt, struck some telling blows at reputation, and told men plainly that not to pay your debts is a breach of the eighth commandment, whether a State or an individual is guilty of it, and a sapient legislature gloried him with a set of resolutions, and new Dr. B. treads on the toes of drunkards and gamblers and of course somebody else.

Such preaching is not the fashion nowadays, but there are precedents for it, among others Elijah the Tishbite and Jesus of Nazareth, both of whom also trod on the toes of influential people, and both of them raised a howl thereby.

Did we live in Nashville we would go to hear Dr. Baird occasionally.

Marriage of the Southside.

DEAR CHRONICLE: It is not necessary for me to say that your visits are appreciated. That is a settled fact; else we would not peruse your weekly columns with so much pleasure. I do not propose to write much through fear of the "waste basket," but simply to give the state of affairs in the "Bend" just now.

Well, the "crop," I believe, are the general subjects of your correspondence, but the crop does not present occupy as many of our thoughts as the loss of "a pure white rose from the rosebud garden of girls." Miss Ada Edmondson was one of our fairest flowers. But alas, she has forsaken her childhood home to wander through the paths of life with one of Dickson county's most worthy citizens—Mr. Eddie Nesbitt.

They were happily united in the holy bonds of matrimony on Wednesday morning, the 23d, by Rev. J. B. West, at the domicile of the bride. Attendants—Dr. B. W. Usery and Miss Ella Lowe; Mr. West Organ, Miss Augusta Richardson; Mr. John Daly, Miss Emma Edmondson; Mr. Julius Morris, Miss Fannie Edmondson; Mr. Sterling Edmondson, Miss Gertrude Nesbitt; Mr. Robt. Edmondson, Miss Mary Richardson; Mr. Irvine Edmondson, Miss Lizzie Ramey; Mr. Ed. Noblett, Miss Mary Caldwell.

They departed immediately after the ceremony for Dickson county, there to dwell amidst gurgling brooks and vine-clad bluffs.

And now "may the gentle winds of heaven ever fan their brows and kind angels guard o'er their daily duties and midnight dreams," 'tis the prayer of your countryman,

L. D. PULLA.

A Welcome Guest.

Our editorial sanctum was illumined on Wednesday by what may be called an angel's visit, not only because such visits are, in these days, as few and far between, but because they leave a glow of light and happiness behind them. The Rev. J. B. West, once the principal of our Female Academy, visited this place on that day to perform the matrimonial ceremony between Mr. J. E. Nesbitt and Miss Ada Edmondson, as is recorded in another column, and, though his now absorbing duties in Nashville limited him to a short stay, he spared a few minutes for the above mentioned welcome visit. Good friend, would that we could see more of you.

Rev. Welborn Mooney.

The gentleman whose name heads this article has been for the last two years Presiding Elder of this district of the Methodist Church, Tennessee Conference. He was re-appointed by the Bishop at the recent Conference at Murfreesboro, to the same work. Mr. Mooney is one of the ablest preachers in this Conference, and is a man of the purest and most exemplary character. We hope his work for the current year will be the most successful of his ministry. See his list of first round appointments in another column.

We have received from our friend Dr. C. L. Wilcox, the sweet potato of the season. It is the variety called the Bermuda, weighs 10 lbs., 2 oz., and its greatest circumference is 26 1/2 in.; its least 24 inches.

Now, ladies and gentlemen, beat that when you are ready. Don't all speak at once.

To Travelers and Tourists.

Mr. J. G. Joseph has in his possession a book giving the exact distance to every city or town on the railroad in the United States and Europe. Any one can get all the information as to points required by calling on him.

Portraiture.

We frequently visit McCormick's gallery, and never without observing some new development of his beautiful art—some advance in technical procedure, or some refinement, not before obtained, in expression or finish. One of the most beautiful innovations, now on hand, is a beautiful flash super-added to life-size photographs, in which colored pastilles are worked in, over the photographic surface. Two of the fairest of our many beautiful Clarksville girls are portrayed to life in this style, as may be seen in McCormick's gallery. Then, in plain photograph, we have a number of finished portraits, which, for clearness of outline and life-like expression, and, above all, for mellow and brilliant disposition of light and shade, are seldom to be equaled and scarcely surpassed at all. Among these a striking portraiture, in group, of Capt. Carnes and the other officers of the Chickasaw Guards. The apparent ease and carelessness, but real artistic skill, with which the positions of the four gentlemen are varied and contrasted, yet combined so as to constitute a well balanced group, evinces something far beyond the mere mechanical adroitness usually attributed to the photographer. It evinces the mind and eye of an artist. We have only to add that the gallery will soon be enriched with another illustration of dramatic interest, representing the Editor of the CHRONICLE at the moment of editorial inspiration; a high priest of typographic mysteries, among which he is recognized as a copy of the Tobacco Leaf at his feet. We hope he is not engaged in demolishing one of the editorials of that valued journal, for if he is—voe victis!

Two Kinds of Comfort.

As winter approaches and with it commercial prosperity, it is quite cheering to see what facility and elegance in human and Lewis display in dressing and preparing gentlemen (young and old) to marry. This firm, who lead in nice and fashionable clothing, have had numerous applications for wedding outfits for two weeks past, and still they come. Their experience, capacity and fine stock put them in the front rank with a large portion of the community who want comfort, style and durability in clothing and general wearing apparel. The public may rely on all values and fair dealing at this house.

Pitman & Lewis' goods cost no more than others of like durability, and their styles of cuts and trimmings are superior.

There is comfort in good clothes. There is dignity in wearing!

PROF. WILLIAMS, who occupies the chair of Chinese language and literature at Yale, has not, it is said, had a single student within two years.

And, even so, we remember a Professor of Arabic at Cambridge, England, who used to say that the Arabic lecture room was Arabia deserta.

Personal Mention.

Rev. R. P. Gannaway, preacher in charge of the Palmyra circuit, was in the city on Wednesday last.

Dr. J. R. Shapard left last Wednesday evening for Louisville, where we learn he will attend lectures during the winter. He will probably make a tour of Europe next spring, and then return to Clarksville.

Mr. John Daly, the polite and affable clerk at the grocery store of Keese & Northington, on the first of November will return to the tobacco factory of P. H. Keese & Co. Mr. Ernest Bench takes Mr. Daly's place in the grocery. He has had a good deal of experience in this house, and will be glad to see his numerous friends and acquaintances.

Union street has recently been graded and put in good repair. Property on that street seems to be in demand. Mr. M. C. Northington has recently made quite an addition to his property on the same street, and is now having a nice cottage put up on First street. Clarksville is still improving.

The Grand Encampment of Odd Fellows, which has been in session at Nashville, after re-electing the following Grand officers, adjourned on Tuesday last:

Marion Jones, of Memphis, Grand Patriarch.

E. Smithson, of Pulaski, Grand High Priest.

H. J. Brady, of Spencer, Grand Senior Warden.

Gentlemen.—I hereby acknowledge the receipt of two thousand dollars, being the amount of the subscription for the new edition of "The Region of Motives," in last week's paper, should have been, "Good or bad taste, that is my business."

M. D. HOFFMAN.

Oct. 20, 1878.

A Call.

CAPT. J. J. CRUSMAN, Clarksville, Tenn.: Sir—We, the undersigned colored citizens of Clarksville, respectfully request you to permit the use of your name as a candidate for Mayor in the ensuing municipal election.

We feel that the time has come, when, in matters of public interest, we should be guided by intelligence, and in choosing men for public office, we should ask, "Is he honest? Is he capable?" and, as a race in some respects peculiarly circumstanced, we are justified in asking, "Is he unbiassed by the mildest of race prejudice?" We believe that, in so far as your jurisdiction extends, you will administer to all cases equal and exact justice, and in every case endeavor to become a candidate, we pledge you our hearty support.

A. Army, G. W. Garrett, C. M. McClure, Wm. Webster, J. Read, C. McCallie, E. Clark, B. Cook, J. Price, W. Stewart, Jno. L. Russell, W. Tyler, W. Pennington, G. White, Joe Farley, J. L. Smith, D. D. Rice, W. S. Wilcox, M. S. Cordie, E. Brown, A. R. Watkins, J. R. Kellogg, Peter Horst, J. Q. Beaumont, G. Harman, Wm. H. King, J. H. Barlow, A. King, J. H. Howard, J. H. Howard, A. M. Graves, Lewis Boyd, Taylor Hawkins, Wm. Boyd, C. Boga, R. E. Dixon, W. Shurton, W. H. Hines, Jordan Barksdale, J. Dick, Beaumont & Settle, P. H. Halliard, R. Moss, J. W. Hox, E. D. Proctor, G. W. Kellogg, A. Glenn, S. Cross, J. C. Chawley, J. Claude, G. W. Brown, I. Vance, R. W. Elder, S. C. McNeill, J. W. Roberts, Wm. Hawkins, Mack Dick, J. D. Bailey, John Faulkner.

New Store.

From our advertising columns it will be seen that Mr. A. R. Hall's new store will be ready for business on Tuesday next. The fine building, in which this business is to be transacted, has been built by Mr. Hall himself, and is quite a feature in the city. The sales room is of noble dimensions (30 by 100 feet), and there are two stories above it of equal dimensions. Dry goods and millinery wares are the staple of the principle sales room, and hats, caps, shoes and clothing will be kept up stairs, as well as carpeting, oil cloth, etc. One feature in the establishment is the ladies' toilet room, which will be appreciated as a great accommodation by ladies from the country.

Mr. Hall belongs to a class of men whom Clarksville needs and will heartily welcome. He has capital and enterprise, and our city presents a wide field for the profitable employment of both. There is capital in Clarksville, but a good deal of it has been locked up in bricks and mortar since the great fire, and our business needs are able to absorb more with advantage. It will be noted that the new establishment is in a new store, and we understand that it is to be conducted rigidly on cash principles. We trust that the example will be generally followed. Those who are unaccustomed to it will find it inconvenient at first, but in the end it will be found advantageous to both buyers and sellers; for one thing goods can be sold at least 25 per cent. cheaper on that basis.

The scenery for Elder's Opera House is nearly completed. The landscape scenes are painted by Mr. James H. West and the interiors by Mr. H. Bulder, and the establishment may now fairly challenge comparison with those in much larger cities. We know of no scenery in Nashville nearly as good. There contains no more general variety of than were informed by the post-office authorities is now the case. We refer to the fact that statements, bills, etc., can now be mailed in an unsold envelope with a one-cent stamp. The many monthly statements which are mailed by wholesale dealers are mailed by one-cent, but no writing other than the legitimate bill can be placed on the envelope. No such words as "Please remit" can be written on the envelope, but, as neither of our larger houses in the city are made for first-class entertainments of all sorts throughout the winter season.

We find that the colored people are following up the movement of the white citizens in calling upon Capt. Crusman to become a candidate for the mayoralty. It is creditable to their judgement that they appreciate good qualities of character, and we are well assured that they will not be disappointed in their expectation of "strict and exact justice to all classes," should the wish of the whole community be realized by the election of Capt. J. J. Crusman to the mayoralty. Of that event there is no shadow of a doubt, should he consent to accept the office, and the universal desire of all citizens can hardly fail to constrain his acceptance.

Who is Blaine.

A Western exchange derisively asks, "Who is Blaine?" Now don't you know who Blaine is? We can tell you very easily. He is a citizen by adoption of the State of Maine, and enjoys the distinction of wearing the Senatorial toga.

He is a man who served the United States as a drafted soldier in the army through a substitute, hired for him by the government, and who has since been away from the sanguinary scene of conflict.

He is a man who, as the Speaker of the House of Representatives, used his influence to secure the Fort Smith & Little Rock railroad subsidy, receiving for his influence $42,000 in bonds.

He is a man who got on his knees to Mulligan and implored him to deliver up his criminal letters, urging as a reason that his wife and family would be left helpless if these letters were to appear in evidence and the law allowed to take its course.

He is a man who snatched evidences of his guilt from another man's hands.

He is a man who was sunstruck on the eve of a National Republican Convention.

Ask us a harder one.
